Genetics

Clinical Genetics is a medical specialty which provides a diagnostic service and genetic counselling for individuals or families with, or at risk of, conditions which may have a genetic basis.

Genetic disorders can affect any body system and any age group. If you think you or your family may be affected by a genetic disorder, 3fivetwo can arrange a consultation with a local Clinical Geneticist. The areas of special interest to this Consultant are paediatric genetics & dysmorphism, epilepsy, neurogenetics & familial cancer syndromes including breast cancer.

This service typically includes:

- Consultation and examination
- Detailed medical and family history
- Blood tests as required
- Referral for individually tailored tests and examinations
- Individual care management plan
